

Greening your office environment... Simple changes for a more sustainable workplace

This document aims to show you how you can make a difference by simply 'switching' which products you purchase to more environmentally responsible ones. This change can be very simple and brings with it a dual benefit – not only are you using a more environmentally responsible option, but you are creating demand for recycled material and for new technologies which will ultimately have a big impact on the sustainability of our lifestyles on the planet.

All the products described in this document are high quality, effective alternatives to commonly used office / workplace products. They are all available in either retail or wholesale amounts through Going Green Solutions (info@goinggreensolutions.com.au or 03 9718 0126). You will find a full product & price listing attached. Please contact us for any further details you may require or to discuss how to best meet your particular needs.

Copy paper, envelopes, presentation folders, CD slips...

Choose 100% post-consumer recycled office stationery

- The Ecocern Australian made range range includes 100% post-consumer recycled copy paper, cardboard, cd slips, presentation folders and various sizes of envelopes. The colour is the same as the Origin energy envelopes (brown).
- 'Post-consumer' means it is made from material that has been used at least once as a paper product, and then recycled. It is the most sustainable form of paper to use, as no trees are cut down to make the paper, and it uses and creates demand for scrap paper that often otherwise ends up in the landfill. (Recycled paper, while still a good option, is made from off-cuts that have been diverted from the waste stream during the original paper manufacturing process, not from our recycled paper waste.)

Toilet paper, kitchen towel, lunch napkins...

Choose 100% post-consumer recycled paper products

- The 'Earthwise' range includes 100% post-consumer recycled regular and jumbo toilet rolls, kitchen towel and lunch napkins. Australian owned.

Packing tape...

If your workplace uses packing tape for any purpose, paper packing tape is an excellent choice, as it can be recycled along with the box it is taped to.

Disposable catering ware...

If your work function or event requires the use of disposable catering ware, choose 100% compostable & biodegradable catering wear made from renewable resources: sugarcane fibre offcuts, PLA, cornstarch, and bamboo.

- Sugarcane fibre bowls, plates and cups are very similar in usage to conventional paper products, but with several advantages. They are made from a readily renewable (and sustainable) resource instead of woodchips. The products are uncoated (ie no plastic) and yet are still suitable for hot food and drinks. They are bleached by oxygen only. This Elemental Chlorine Free (ECF) process does not detract from their look and/or functionality.

- Clear PLA (Polylactic acid) (cups, containers & straws) are made from a biodegradable polymer derived from renewable resources, developed by Cargill. It is made using the carbon stored in starch plants (usually corn) and other elements in these plants, which through a process of bacterial fermentation are made into a natural plastic. PLA is particularly attractive as a sustainable alternative to petrochemical-derived products, since the lactate from which it is ultimately produced can be derived from the fermentation of agricultural by-products such as corn starch or other starch-rich substances like maize, sugar or wheat. PLA is more expensive than many petroleum-derived commodity plastics, but its price has been falling as more production comes online. Packaging made from PLA is biodegradable and reverts in less than 60 days in ideal conditions, namely in a commercial composting facility. NB: PLA is not suitable to use for hot food or drink, but can be frozen.

- Cornstarch Cutlery: is an ecologically and environmentally friendly disposable cutlery made from a starch based polymer and chalk. Its performance is similar to conventional thermoplastics but being based on corn starch, is completely biodegradable in a biologically active environment. The rate of biodegradation depends on the size and shape of the article but is similar to the one usually reached by organic waste when composted in a commercial composting facility.

- Bambooware plates, bowls, cups and cutlery are made from reconstituted bamboo which is a fast-growing and renewable resource. The bamboo is harvested, then pulverised, mixed with water, moulded and then heat blasted to set the shape. Bambooware contains no synthetic materials, plasticisers or dioxins and is 100% biodegradable.

Bags: for rubbish or carrying...

Choose 100% compostable, commercial strength cornstarch bin liners (compost bin to wheelie bin size), or 100% post-consumer recycled paper carry bags for your business needs.

- Our Cornstarch bags are made from a starch based polymer (Mater-Bi ©). The film has a biodegradation time of 20-45 days in composting conditions breaking down into water, carbon dioxide and biomass. Bags comply with ASTM D6400-99; Din 45900 and OK Compost standards for biodegradability and compostability.
- 100% post-consumer recycled carry bags (Australian made) of varying sizes: can be printed with your company logo or wording of your choice.

Washing up, hand-washing, cleaning and disinfecting...

Choose dishwashing liquid, liquid hand soap, all-purpose cleaner, floor cleaner and disinfectant that are made from renewable plant based resources, are safe for waterways (free of nitrates, phosphates, chlorine bleach, strong caustics or alkalis), and are gentle on the people who use them.

- The TriNature Australian owned & made range covers all basic office and workplace cleaning and hygiene needs, is concentrated (no fillers), is available in small or bulk refill amounts to suit your needs, and is highly effective.

Pens, pencils & rulers...

Choose pens and pencils with less environmental impact.

For pens: choose pens with an outer tube made from

- 100% recycled paper,
- biodegradable cornstarch,
- FSC certified timber or
- recycled plastic (The pen refill is a normal ball-point insert).

For pencils: Choose pencils encased in untreated purpose-grown cedar timber from sustainably-managed forests. No paint or lacquer has been used on the wooden body of the pencils. Colours are high quality, smooth and safe (non-toxic), conforming to stringent European standards. The pencils are easy to sharpen and resist breakage.

Pens, pencils and rulers can be printed with your logo and message – this is a really good way to show your staff and customers what you stand for.

Recycled plastic rulers:

Create a more sustainable workplace by changing to compostable, biodegradable, post-consumer recycled, reclaimed and reusable products.

“Green-speak” - what does it mean???

Do you sometimes wonder what on earth the terms biodegradable, compostable, degradable, recycled, post-consumer recycled, grey-water friendly and other such terms mean? Or what the actual difference between them is?

It is easy to be confused when they are bandied about without accompanying explanation – but we hope this guide will help you understand them a bit better so you can apply them to your purchasing decisions.

Degradable / Biodegradable / Compostable

Degradable is a broad term given to natural and manmade substances that can be broken down by natural processes into smaller parts.

Things can be photodegradable (broken down by ultraviolet light), oxidative (broken down by thermal exposure) or biodegradable (broken down by the action of microorganisms).

The term ‘degradable’ in itself does not specify any time frame in which something will break down...for instance, a large tree trunk will biodegrade over the space of many years. A tin can is degradable too; it will break down over a long period of time through oxidation, and weathering. An EPI plastic bag (regular plastic that has been treated to make it degradable), will begin to degrade after about 12-18 months, and the time it takes will depend on how much light and stress (movement) it experiences.

Biodegradable is a term given to material that, as a result of the biological activity of microorganisms (bacteria, fungi and algae), breaks down completely into the raw materials of nature (CO<sub>2</sub>, H<sub>2</sub>O, inorganic compounds and biomass) from which it was made, and disappears into the environment.

Compostable is a term given to biodegradable materials that biodegrade within in a certain time frame under typical composting conditions (which require heat and moisture; and are consistent with the composting conditions required for other known compostable materials like cellulose).

So...when you are choosing what to buy, choose ‘compostable’ (which is therefore also biodegradable) wherever possible, or biodegradable (but not necessarily compostable) as a second choice. And remember that everything is degradable (will fall apart into smaller pieces) eventually, even if it takes a century – this term does not actually tell us much about how long the material will linger in our environment or the effect the resultant ‘smaller pieces’ might have.

Recycled / Post-consumer recycled

Recycled content in paper refers to material that has been reclaimed from the waste stream during the paper manufacturing process. Contrary to what many people think, it is not made from recycled paper waste (such as we put out with our recycling each week), but from paper factory waste (offcuts etc). Therefore, whilst it is a much better choice than non-recycled paper, it still made from tree pulp.

Post-consumer recycled content in paper refers to the portion of the material that is made from material that has been used at least once as a paper product and then recycled. This means that no trees are directly cut down to make this content of the paper, and a second great benefit is that post-consumer recycled content creates demand for waste paper (a large portion of which is still dumped in landfill as supply is larger than demand).

So...when you are choosing which paper to buy, choose the highest post-consumer recycled content you can find, or the highest recycled paper content you can find as a second choice.

Grey-water friendly

One of the best places to find independent information about what products are suitable for grey-water usage is Lanfax Laboratories – who are an independent, commercial and research organisation with special interests in soil, water and wastewater analysis. For full information on grey-water suitable products, have a good look at the Lanfax website where they test a multitude of laundry products on the resulting water quality after a test wash, and then present product results based on consideration of multiple criteria together (the combined results are what tells us whether a particular product is or is not suitable for use in grey-water).

The combined criteria Lanfax test on are:

- pH: less than 8 (for liquids) and less than 10 (for powders)
- sodium load less than 10gms (liquids) and less than 20gms (powders) per wash
- phosphorus load less than 1 gm per wash and
- electrical conductivity less than 1 dS/m per wash

If the product tests below these levels on all four criteria, then it is considered the least hazardous to plants and soil microbes. Please note that even if you are not using your laundry water on your garden and it is going into the sewer, the less treatment it needs before being non-hazardous to our waterways the better.

So...when you are choosing a laundry product, don't just go for one that makes claims to be 'low-sodium' or 'phosphate free'. Check the Lanfax Labs website to see how it rates on meeting ALL FOUR of the above criteria.

Create a more sustainable lifestyle – at home, work or play - by changing to compostable, biodegradable, post-consumer recycled, reclaimed and reusable products.
